AF Environmental Transformation

U.S. AIR FORCE

Jeff Domm
HQ USAF/ILEV

7 Apr 04

U.S. AIR FORCE

Environmental Transformation

Quality

- EMS
- EESOH-MIS

Restoration

- Senior leadership visibility
- Focus on time and cost
- Performance-Based Management Tools

- Protect Human Health and the Environment
- Partner with Stakeholders
- Ensure Operational Readiness

U.S. AIR FORCE

Transformation Environmental Quality

- Environmental Management System
  - AF environmental programs in substantial conformance with standards
  - Compliance and investments based on risk
- Goals
  - Meet Dec 05 implementation
  - Ensure compatibility with S and OH

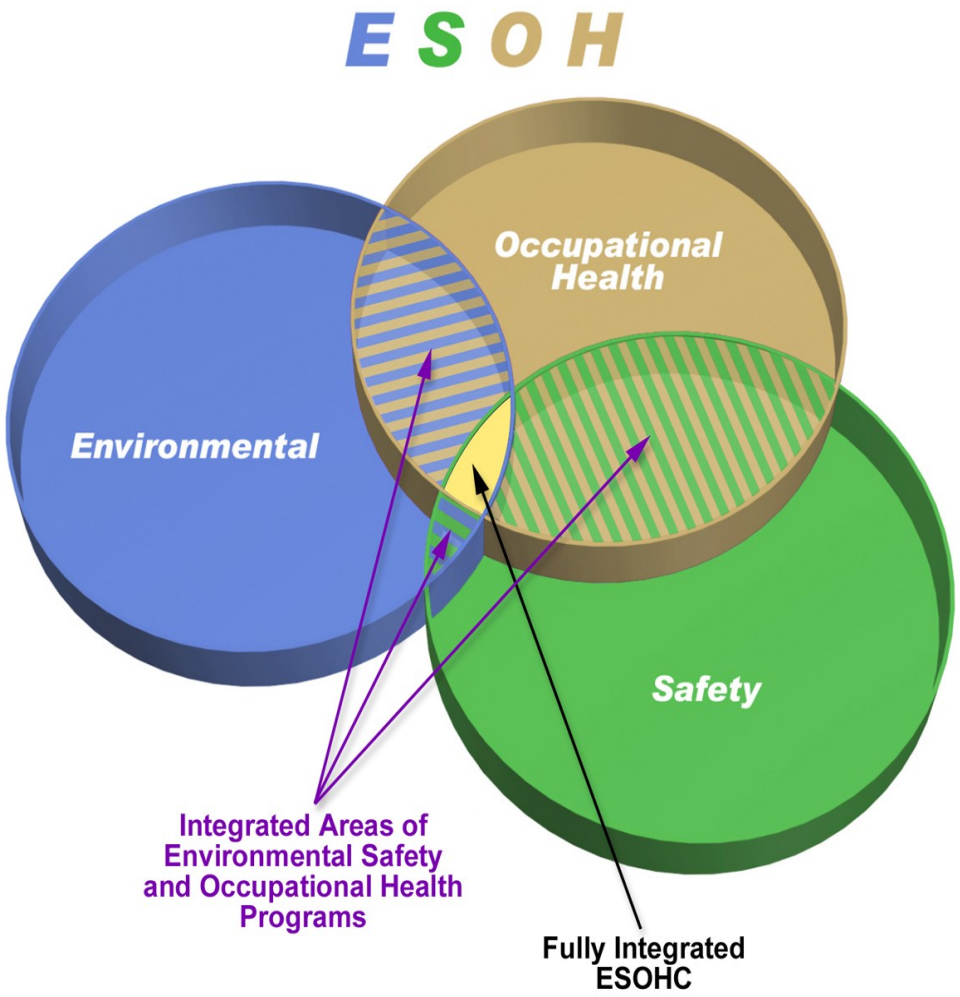
U.S. AIR FORCE

Transformation Environmental Quality



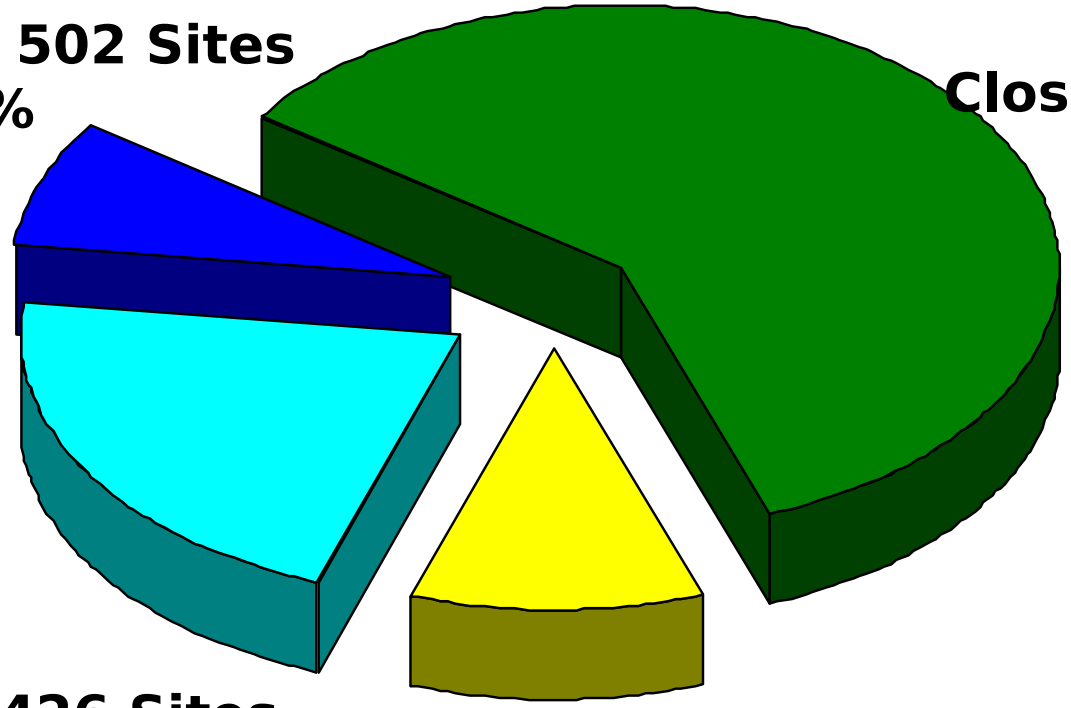
- Provides holistic view for commander's
- Inherent overlap exists
- Coordinated development effort
- Capitalize on existing programs

Transformation Environmental Quality

EESOH-MIS

- Integrated corporate information management system
  - Focus: Improve/standardize business practices
  - Integrated vs multiple stove piped systems
- Not an adaptation and interface of legacy systems
- Strategic goals
  - Integrated solutions
  - Adaptable
  - Standardized
  - Supports shared information

Transformation
Environmental Restoration



AF Total = 6538 Sites

As of Dec 03

The Air Force Civil Engineer (AF/ILE):

- Chartered ER Tiger Team
  - Cost to complete
  - Cleanup milestones (metrics)
  - Data Quality
- Program management reviews of MAJCOMs
  - CTC/time to complete
  - PBM tools
- Munitions response program
  - Foundation: Transformation principles
  - Utilize ER experiences/lessons learned

U.S. AIR FORCE

Transformation Way Forward

- EMS to ESOH MS: One cohesive ESOH team
- One integrated ESOH information tool
- Transformation with Operational Focus
  - Changes to Policy Directives, AFIs
  - Fully utilize performance-based management tools
  - Innovative approach to MRP
- Harness:
  - ER Tiger Team expert recommendations
  - 20 years of experience

UNITED STATES AIR FORCE

Integrity - Service - Excelle nce